HOW TO RIDE A BICYCLE AND RULES OF THE ROAD.

Age is not a necessary requisite to be enabled to ride; children of tender years as well as men of three-score and ten may become capable riders.

Wealth or station are not requisite, neither is race, religion, nor previous condition of servitude.

To thoroughly manage the wheel all the faculties are brought into play and the rider of a Sterling soon loses nervousness, slowness of thought, indecision and kindred faults, obtaining instead, steady nerves, quick perception, and decision; besides added health, strength and consequent increased vital energy.

It is proper to say that we advocate simply the merits of the Sterling wheel, which is sold for $60 by the Pacific Cycle & Manufacturing Company, in the Ehlers block on Fort street, and further say that to ably ride and manage a Sterling bicycle, does not alone constitute all that is necessary for a wheelman to know. In addition to a facility to wheel, it is most necessary to the written and unwritten

RULES OF THE ROAD.
1—Keep to right of center of road.
2—Pass to right of approaching vehicle, pedestrian or wheelman.
3—Pass to left of pedestrian, vehicle or wheelman going your way.
4—Pass behind a pedestrian crossing a street.
5—Two or more riders should follow the same rule in passing vehicles, pedestrians or other wheelman.
6—Always have wheel under full control at the intersection of streets.
7—Do not scorch on crowded thoroughfares.
8—Get a copy of these Rules of the Road from the Pacific Cycle & Manufacturing Company, and thus fit yourself with, next to a Sterling bicycle, the most necessary requisite to ride a wheel pleasantly, safely and ably.

MAY HAVE THE HELIOGRAPH

GEN. GREELY SAYS HE WILL INVESTIGATE.

Promises That Stations Will be Established in the Islands, If Possible, by the Troops Here.

HILO, May 27.—During the recent visit of Mr. L. T. Grant to Washington, he interviewed General A. W. Greely, Chief of the Signal Office of the War Department, upon the subject of the Marconi wireless telegraphy with which experiments were at that time, and are still, being made. Mr. Grant's purpose was to learn as to the practicality of its being applied to inter-island communication in Hawaii. General Greely said that up to that time the system had hardly been found practicable. They had succeeded in signalling five miles or so, though results were often dubious. He could not recommend it for island distances. He suggested however the heliograph system and requested Mr. Grant to furnish what data he could applicable to the subject, which Mr. Grant did by letter a little later. General Greely's reply given below will be found of interest:

Washington, May 6, 1899.

Mr. Louis T. Grant,

General Manager Hilo Electric Light Co., Ltd., Hilo, H. I.

Sir:—In reply to your letter of April 27th, I have to say that the data contained therein is not sufficient to determine whether or not communication by heliograph is practicable. The matter will, however, be taken up at once by this department and if possible, stations will be established under the direction of the commanding officer of the troops. The final solution of the problem will be to connect the islands by submarine cables, for which purpose a special appropriation will be required.

Very respectfully,

A. W. GREELY,

Brig. Gen., Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A. —Hilo Tribune.

AN AMERICAN COUNTRY.

Is Widowed a Second Time Within Six Years.

LONDON, May 16.—Mrs. Samuel J. Colgate, who was married to the Earl of Stafford last December in New York, is now a Countess Dowager, having enjoyed her honors barely five months. The Earl, while waiting for his train, suddenly fell forward from the platform at Potter's Bar and was decapitated and mangled by the Cambridge express. He was 68 years of age, was enormously wealthy, having 15,000 acres of land in London and the vicinity, and dies without heirs, unless there should be a posthumous child.

The Countess of Stafford is well known in New York society, although she has given rather more of her time to fashionable life in London than at home for several years past. She is handsome and very wealthy. Her first husband, Samuel J. Colgate, who inherited a fortune from his father and added to it as a manufacturer of soap and a banker, died in 1893, leaving an estate valued at $10,000,000. Mrs. Colgate has a fine mansion at 4 West Sixteenth Street and a country place, Uplands at New Hamburg, N. Y. Before her first marriage she was Miss Corn Smith, daughter of the late Samuel Smith of New Orleans. She has a daughter of about 20 years.

HAWAIIAN COFFEE.

Hawaiian Coffee in Demand But Price Too High.

Otis, McAllister & Co., in their latest coffee report give the following:

During the past month a fair amount of business has been done, but considerable concessions had to be made in asking prices in order to effect sales. A much larger business could undoubtedly be done in Hawaiians but for the fact that they are held at considerably higher prices comparatively than similar grades of Central American coffees.

Sales since the first of April have been as follows:

| | | |
|----------------------|-------|------------|
| 72 Bags Fancy | | @18 1/2 c. |
| 400 Bags Good | | @14 c. |
| 78 Bags Prime | | @16 c. |
| 124 Bags Inferior | | @10 c. |
| We quote Hawaiians: | | |
| Good Current Quality | | @12 c. |
| Prime | | @14 c. |
